September 2022 Fourth Amendment Series

This Fourth Amendment Series is in collaboration with the NACDL Fourth Amendment Center, which educates the defense bar on privacy challenges in the digital age, provides a dynamic toolkit of resources to help lawyers identify opportunities to challenge government surveillance, and establishes a tactical litigation support network to assist in key cases.

9/20/22 Geofence Warrants and Reverse Searches

MICHAEL PRICE, Litigation Director for the Fourth Amendment Center
12:00-1:30 pm Zoom Registration Link

To identify criminal suspects, law enforcement officers are turning increasingly to reverse search warrants, such as geofence warrants and keyword search warrants. This trend presents novel challenges to the Fourth Amendment and privacy rights in the United States. The NACDL Fourth Amendment Center resource page on reverse warrants is here.

MICHAEL PRICE, Litigation Director for the Fourth Amendment Center at NACDL, focuses on cutting-edge Fourth Amendment issues including the "third-party doctrine," location tracking, device searches, parallel construction, and government hacking. He provides trainings and direct legal assistance to equip defense lawyers with the tools they need to ensure that the Fourth Amendment keeps pace with emerging technologies.

9/27/22 Predictive Policing and Social Media Monitoring

JUMANA MASA, Director of the Fourth Amendment Center at NACDL
11-1230 pm Zoom Registration Link

Predictive policing encompasses the surveillance technologies, tools, and methods employed to visualize crime, target "at-risk" individuals and groups, map physical locations, track digital communications, and collect data on individuals and communities. The NACDL Fourth Amendment Center resource page on predictive policing is here.

JUMANA MUSA, Director of the Fourth Amendment Center at the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers, is a human rights attorney and racial justice activist. Ms. Musa oversees NACDL's initiative to build a new, more durable Fourth Amendment legal doctrine for the digital age.

The Office of the State Public Defender's (OSPD) Indigent Defense Improvement Division provides trainings relevant to the defense community and people impacted by the criminal legal system. Unless otherwise noted these trainings are intended for criminal defense team members only, including investigators, social workers, and paralegals.

Webinar registrants will receive the follow up email, after the webinar, with the webinar materials and information about how to access the recording of the webinar.
